Dear Max,

Thank you for your note on Colonel Robert T. Kramer. You are right that the Moscow Defense Attache office is a potentially important one for all of us who desire as much insight into the Soviet Union as we can get and I certainly share your interest in seeing it filled with good people. If the occasion arises I will raise this issue with Secretary Weinberger.

Yours,

Dear Bill:

The Executive Secretary of our Defense and Space negotiating group in Geneva, Colonel Robert T. Kramer, is, I am informed, being considered by the Department of Defense for the post of defense attache in Moscow. I realize that this is a position of tremendous importance to you and to your associates. I write to say that Colonel Kramer, in my opinion, would be well suited to accept that responsibility. He understands the nature of the Soviet Union, has served there in a military capacity, and speaks and reads the language with proficiency. He is intelligent and writes well. He is a fine officer and a credit to our country. I want you to know of my high opinion of Bob.

All my best to you.

Sincerely,

Max M. Kampelman
